Committee on Responsibility for War Frames Report for Drastic Action.

A GIGANTIC INDICTMENT

Rapid Peace Is Essential Enable Allies to Get Reparation.

Parts, March 7.-While it is imposthie to give any forecast of the terms of the report of the commission on responsibility for the war, which report is about completed, it may be said that those who have been urging that drastle action should be taken against the principal authors of Germany's was crimes will not be disappointed in the sions of the commission. The report will include a general historical sur rey of the events which led up from July 21 to the outbreak of the war.

The sub-committee on facts, which has been presided over with groat shrewdness and practical sagacity by Mr. Mas-sey, has classified the German crimes under thirty-one headings. As a historical document the report will be something of a curiosity, for never has the indictment of a nation been brought home to individuals before as it will be now, and never have the charges covered such a wide field of crime or included so many different forms of violation.

Extent of Reparation.

There has been no decision taker ret as to whether reparation includes indemnttles for war costs, whether Ger-many shall be called upon to pay a bill not only for what she has actually destroyed through invasion and by subma-rine warfare but also for the allied wealth she has destroyed by forcing a huge military expenditure upon the

It is generally agreed that reparation in its simplest significance must come first; that France, Belgium and Serbia must be compensated for the damage thay have suffered directly at the en-emy's hands. It is also apparent that my is unable to do much more than this first claim. Are the British es, for instance, to have no assistance from the enemy countries in meet-ing the heavy burden of debt that the war has placed upon their shoulders? As this question is considered further ch day it becomes more and more ap-it is clear that whether you call it reparation or indemnity, France has got to get some relief from the enemy, and it is realized more and more clearly that unrealized more and more clearly that un-less Germany has a chance to work peacefully she will be unable to pay any planation suggested here, and that un-

There are other reasons why the world needs a rapid peace. Unless it is quickly concluded the Germans may be able to wriggle out of those conditions of control and disarmament which are vital to France, and without which the
